Celia Logan.

A correspondent of the American Press Association writes as follows from New York concerning Celia Logan, the gifted

The Logan sisters were all talented. Eliza Logan, the eldest, was a dramatic star, whom the elderly theatre goers remember only to praise. Olive is well known as a writer and lecturer, while Celia, the ablest and most unassuming of all, has made an bonored name in journalistic literature, both in this country and Europe.

A distinguished politician, who was a beau in the days when the Logan sisters were unhi the days when the logar sisters were unmerried and famous belles, speaks with sparkling eyes of the beauty of the Logan

In addition to her original writing she has done much excellent work as a translator from the French and Italian. Curiously enough, her first efforts in that field were made in converting American war news from English into Latin. She lived in Milan, Italy, during the late war. The facilities of the Milanese press for obtaining American war news were then much below what was demanded by the importance of the occasion. Miss Logan was known as one of the literati, and as it was understood that she regularly received news from her own country concerning the struggle which then engrossed the attention of the civilized world, the directors of the Milanese press appealed to her for aid. Not then being sufficiently acquainted with Italian to translate into that language, and English being a sented book to Milanese journalists, a compromise suggested by her was tried and provided to be a happy solution of the diffiproved to be a happy solution of the diffi-culty. She first put the American war news into Latin and then the journalists turned the Latin into Italian.

Another important branch of Miss Lo-Another important branch of hiss Logan's literary work has been the rewriting, adapting and translating of plays. As in the case of so much of her editorial work, the credit of what she has done in this direction has gone to others, who have won fame and fortune by her combined literary and dramatic talent. One of her works, the drama, "An American Marriage," has been eminently successful in winning both the plaudits of the public and the approbation of the press. Her intimate relations with the stage have the public and the approbation of the press. Her intimate relations with the stage have the public and the approbation of the press. THE GOLD MINING COMPANY (location, Music Mountains, A. T.) is as School Books for the Million. sound a mining enterprise as was ever placed on the market, and its possibilities have never been exceeded. Every share should double in value within a year, and they may quadruple, as they are based on MEADQUARTERS AT FRENCH'S property that would ordinarily have been capitalized ten (10) times as great on account of its known richness and promise.

The shares are made small so that any one can invest. Subscriptions for five shares are as welcome as those for hundreds.

Every dollar of earnings will go to the stockholders in dividends, as there is nothing else that they can be used for.

A Wisewell mill, capacity 20 tons per day, with powerful machinery, has been purchased and will be on the ground ready for erection at the mine within the next thirty days.

The solid basis upon which the company is founded and the practical proofs of the richness of the mine have already secured the confidence of the public, and the stock has steadily advanced in selling value Within the last few days bona fide sales have been made AT PAR.

There is no better stock on the market for a permanent investment. For full information in regard to this Mine apply to the
